I am so excited to experience this and I'm so grateful that my classmates chose me." Senior, Parker Bowen, who was crowned king, said, "It was pretty amazing. When Ethan put the crown on my head I didn't really know what to do. I was speechless. It was a huge surprise." Congratulations to the whole court!

Pep Rally Mikkii Lovelace '15

The pep rally is something every student looks forward to, not only do they get out of class they get to laugh and cheer for their grades. The first game played was tug-o-war, because what's an assembly without that. The Seniors came in first place with Juniors second, Freshmen third, and Sophomores fourth. There was also the baby food challenge where again Seniors came in first, Juniors in second, Sophomores third, and Freshmen fourth. The dizzy bat race had the Seniors in first still, Freshman in second, Sophomores in third, and Juniors in fourth. The Charging Elephant game had to be one of the more comical games with the Seniors in first place, Sophomores in second, Freshman in third, and Juniors in fourth. The basketball pie competition with the Seniors in first place, the Freshmen and Sophomores tied for second place, and the Juniors in third. The improvisation dance had to be everyone's favorite. How often do you get to see a couple of your friends go out in front of everyone and be silly? The Freshmen came in first breaking the streak for the Seniors, Sophomores in second, Seniors in third, and Juniors in fourth. The last game of the pep rally was the nose dive with the Seniors back in first place, Sophomores in second, Freshman in third, and Juniors in fourth. The overall outcome of the pep rally was the Seniors winning.

Ally Week DeJana Tellis '18

January 26th-30th The Pennfield High School Gay-Straight Alliance held an Ally Week to promote non-bullying against those based on sexuality and gender identity. The main purpose of GSA at Pennfield High School is to create a safe environment for the LGBT community and their allies, at school. All week, members from the group welcomed everyone to sign pledges promising to never bully or discriminate based on sexuality or gender. I asked Tori Slone, a member of GSA, how many total pledges she wished to receive. She answered, "All of them!" They did not get all of the signatures, but a total of 131 pledges were signed. Anyone who signed the pledge received a rainbow ribbon and their pledge was displayed on the window surrounding a Rainbow Pride flag, which represents diversity. The main goal of Ally Week was "to make the school a more accepting and safer place for all students, especially for the LGBT community," said Adrianna Alton, student leader of GSA. To anyone who signed the pledge, the Gay-Straight Alliance thanks you. Any students or staff who would still like to sign a pledge may stop down to Mrs. Fleisher's room to do so.

Get to Know Mrs. Haroff Ashley Tate '15

Mrs. Haroff joined the Pennfield staff in 2011. She is married and has two sons, one is a computer tech and the other is a graphic designer. She lived in Germany for three years and also lived in Oklahoma for seven. Interesting fact, since being married she has actually moved seventeen times. Her Bachelors and Masters Degree are from Western Michigan. She also teaches classes during the summer in her pottery studio. Mrs. Haroff said her favorite thing about being an art teacher is seeing all the different art work students create. She couldn't imagine her life without art.

Senioritis Taylor Stout '15

As second semester begins, more and more seniors begin to lack motivation. Many refer to this as senioritis. Some say senioritis starts when those seniors realize their time has come, time to be at the top and time to leave. Carl Finch and Sydney Brown were recently voted "Worst Senioritis" for our Yearbook Superlatives, and when asking Carl how he feels about that he replied "It's the honest truth, I don't like being here and I hate school." They say that honesty is the best policy, so we applaud you for that, Carl. As time goes on, many of the seniors show obvious symptoms and there is no changing it. Sadly, the only known cure is a phenomenon known as Graduation. But don't worry guys, half the year is over, we'll be done in a flash.

Ski Club

Camarie Smith '16

There aren't many clubs that involve winter and snow. But there is ski club. Ski club meets every Wednesday after school. It is a great club to be a part of because each week everyone tries to improve on their skills and help each other out with new things. Ryan Hammer loves the rush from snowboarding and being able to learn different things. It is the perfect club for anyone who loves the snow and cold and if you have a passion for ski or snowboarding. Students from both the middle school and high school are involved. See Mrs. Nolin or Mr. Kubik for more information!

Restaurants To Go To

Maddy Peet '15

Valentine's day, it's a day you either love or hate. Even if you have zero tolerance for all the chocolate and teddy bears, there's still hope to have a good time. Dress in some nice clothes and go to a fancy dinner. There are many different restaurants in town where you can spend your magical night. You could go to Panera Bread, Chili's, Finley's, Applebee's, Buffalo Wild Wings, or you could just go to McDonalds. Why not go to Kalamazoo and go to Olive Garden? The opportunities are endless! Have a great Valentine's Day!

Valentine's Gift Ideas

Emma Stover '15

Valentine's Day, a simple, regular day in the middle of February that should be like any other. Obviously it's not, though, so what else can you do but celebrate, go along with it and enjoy it as much as you can? The best way to celebrate Valentine's Day is to spend time with your loved one, and maybe exchange a gift or two. But there's the catch, what are you going to give them? The most common gift to give to both men and women is a simple greeting card. Also high up on the list is candy, flowers, jewelry, and other bland gifts that you would expect. Still, every year, you wonder, what can I do to blow their mind? Why not get your partner something from the heart, like a poem or a drawing? That way, you don't have to spend money, and you also have something meaningful and related to your relationship and your love life, so it's special to you. If that doesn't work for you, you can always go for a cute stuffed animal or a heart shaped pillow. Or, if you're willing to go far, you can get your loved one a real animal, such as a puppy or a cute kitten. Are none of those working for you? Why not just put a twist on the traditional gifts? Instead of stressing about the flowers you bought dying, buy a scented candle that will last and still have a great smell, or a bouquet of fruit. Or, instead of getting them plain jewelry, get them something that means something to you, such as a family heirloom like your mother's necklace or your grandfather's old watch. This Valentine's Day is sure to be the best, if you give the best gifts.

St. Valentine's Day

DeJana Tellis '18

Although today, Valentine's Day is a celebration to buy gifts and chocolate for your significant other to show them how much you care, the holiday dates back to the 5th century. The origin of Valentine's Day comes from the Roman holiday Lupercalia. February 14th is the day of romance. The History Channel states the legend that Saint Valentine's was a priest during third century in Rome. The roman commander decided that young men were better as soldiers and outlawed marriage to young men. St. Valentine saw the wrong in that and went against them and helped the young men marry in secret. For doing so, he was ordered to be put to death. Other stories say Valentine helped men escape Roman prisons being tortured and beaten. He was also put to death, but before he sent letters to the men he helped that read, "From your Valentine." No one knows the real story of his death, but to commemorate his death the church held a feast in the middle of February. St. Valentine's Day's date, February 14th, was chosen by Pope Gelasius and was declared the day of love. In the middle ages it was said that February 14th was the day birds mating season began, making it even more "romantic." Today, Valentine's Day is a romantic day filled with gifts and candy. It is also the second largest card-sending holiday of the year.

WINTER

BOWLING Kadee Bechman '15

"Roll, roll, roll your ball gently down the lane, merrily, merrily, merrily life is full of pinz." The bowling team has been going through this phrase since the end of November. Both varsity teams have not been as successful as they'd hope to be. The varsity guys team has won the City Tournament and the Baker Tournament. The varsity girls have won only the City Tournament. With having a bunch of new people on the team, there are many different emotions and comments towards the teams. Sophomore, Max Jackson says, "I really enjoy being on the team because we all somewhat get along and I enjoy being at the bowling alley." Max also said, "I really enjoy hanging out with Bailey and Kadee because they're easy to joke around with and they're cool people." Senior, Kadee Bechman added, "this season is the most interesting, being the senior anchor with a fresh team is different. I'm so used to winning but now I'm holding myself together, so I can shine as an individual like I did at the conference singles when I became the the first ever bowler at PHS to take 1st. I'm really just preparing for the Queens Tournament in May that I was invited to in Wisconsin. If I advance to the top three out of the 4 days, I will be on ESPN live, and if i win I'll be Bowling Queen. I am motivated and ready to work hard."

COMPETITIVE CHEER

Samantha Penland '15

The girls on both JV and Varsity teams have been doing great so far this year. Just recently the varsity girls placed 3rd out of nine teams. That is a great improvement from the beginning of the year. The girls are working very hard to get 1st place. The team is also acting like a family which makes them perform better. I had a chance to speak with one of the girls on varsity. I asked junior, Rebecca, how the team is doing and what she likes about cheer. She said, "With each competition we are getting better and are growing stronger as a team and personally my favorite thing about cheer is stunting and being close to the girls on the team." Sounds like the girls are having a great season.

WRESTLING Chester Dalski '18

The Pennfield Panther Wrestling team has been off to a great start this year "Wrestling teaches you how to defend yourself against people bigger than you," Nolen Bornemann told me, who is currently 19-9 so far this year. Other members include Ashton Leenhouts, Dylan Huff, Nick Swartz and many others. The coaches this year for the team are Coach Boyer and Coach Huff. The team itself is currently 3-3 in the Interstate 8 conference. The League Tournament was Saturday, February 7th. If you are interested, come out and support the Pennfield Panther Wrestling Team.

SPORTS

BOYS BASKETBALL Ainsley Haaksma '17

Swoosh! Pennfield's boys basketball team has been putting in work this season! With a few new players, the team has been working hard to get to where they are now. A freshman on varsity, Grant Petersen said, "I'm fortunate Coach Grimes gave me the opportunity to play on the varsity team this year. The guys welcomed me and made me feel comfortable. I've worked hard to make it to where I am and I'll do whatever I can to help the team. We have a great team this year and I'm thankful I get to be a part of it." This years team captains are Ryan Lowe and Brandun Rugg. Rugg said, "I believe that now that we're starting to win more, the student section is getting bigger and bigger! I hope it continues." The score of their first game against Olivet, was 53-39. A great start to the season. The boy's highest scoring game was against Coldwater, with 77 points, beating them by 21 points. Varsity player, Steffen Kinne said, "One of our goals was to have a winning season and to compete in the league...we're right there." When asked about rivalry, Lowe said that our biggest rival would be Harper Creek. Kinne also said "The student section is huge, with them cheering us on and supporting us the whole game no matter the results." For the past couple years, the student section has really gotten into dressing up for each game. These boys deserve the support! Junior varsity player, Ryan Miller, complimented the team, "They work together and never let eachother fail." Pennfield's basketball team is an important program to us all, as well as a sport we all enjoy watching because of how exciting each game is. Come out and support the players this season.

GIRLS BASKETBALL Taylor Swartz '15

This years girls basketball team has gotten a good start on the season, with a record of 7-7. The captains are Kaitlyn Wilkey (Senior), Jessica Roan (Junior), and England Bennett (Junior). I asked Kaitlyn what she thought about the season so far and she said, "It's been an up and down season but we have a good team. We are all adjusting to the new things this year, and getting to know our strengths and weaknesses and working them out to be that great team we want to be." This years team is pretty young, there are only 3 seniors on the team. Naomi Davis, Brianna Abercrombie, and Claire Leroux are all freshman on the team, I asked Claire what it was like to be a freshman playing varsity basketball, she said, "It was intimidating at first but the girls were very welcoming. I'm grateful for this experience and will keep working hard to help the team to reach our goals for the season." Come out and support Pennfield girls basketball on Tuesday and Friday nights!

Men's Swimming Emma Stover '18

Even though small in numbers, the Men's Swimming Team is still going strong. The team consists of three members, which are Nick Simonds, Zachary Woodman, and Zak Hultink, with Coach Latchaw. This season, they have had a total of about ten matches, of which the have won five and lost five. When I asked Zak about his experience in the team, he simply told me that he liked it because "I get to swim for two hours straight." He also mentioned the great friends that he had made and the great and straightforward teachings of Mrs. Latchaw. Just keep swimming, Panthers!

Stats

The AP Stats Class

IAN STEMPLEWSKI '15, EMILY KENT '15, AND KELLY SEECH '15

After collecting data for this study looking at social media usage, a range from zero hours up to 49 hours a week is exhibited. This generated an average value of 11.4 hours a week that is spent on social media usage. This data created a fairly large variability and shows that social media usage has a large range and is used several different amounts. However, in comparison with other activities it is used just about as much as time spent on other activities studied, with the exception of sleep.

EMILY JACKSON '15, ROBERT CONNELLY '16, AND SAMANTHA PENLAND '15

The average amount of hours for the student bodied being studied, is the second to smallest out of the averages. Our average amount of hours per weeks was 4.9, which is a very small amount. To best display our data, we used the modified set of data, because there were two very high values given per week. The most occurring value for the modified set is 0 hours and 10 hours of texting per week.

AMBER KEMMERER '15, HEATHER MCLEOD '15, AND NIAH SALEH '15

On average students at Pennfield High School watch 6.5 hours of TV per week. The amount of hours spent watching TV per week ranged from 0 hours to 21 hours. Compared to other activities, such as sleep, social media and exercise, less time is spent per week performing this activity. When compared to texting and studying, more time is spent watching TV than performing these activities per week.

MOLLY BOLES '16, WHITNEY WEBB '15, AND MORGAN DALLY '15

While studying how many hours students at PHS spent on homework or studying, some interesting things were found. There are 168 hours in a week, and not many were spent on school work. The average hours spent on homework from the data collected was 3.9. Many students reported that they did not spend any time on homework or studying throughout their week.

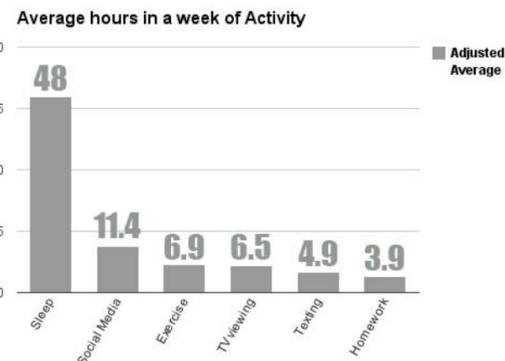

JAELYNNE VAXTER '15, CAMERON CRESPO '15, AND AMANDA GRIFFIN '15

Our AP Statistics class recently conducted a survey of 65 students asking them to sum up the amount of time a week they spend on six different activities. Our group calculated the findings for the amount of sleep the students get each week. 50% of all the students surveyed, reported sleeping between 40 and 56 hours every week. The exact average based off our findings was 48 hours of sleep per week. Based off this survey, 75% of students at Pennfield High School are most likely not getting the recommended 56 hours of sleep a week.

MIKE WILSON '16, KYLIE MCHALE '15, AND NATHAN BEHNKE '15

After polling 65 students at Pennfield high school about how often they exercise per week. We found some interesting thing. With a couple outliers in the data we had to trim the data to make it more symmetrical. To our surprise because of all the zeros (representing zero hours of exercise in a week) the mean changed very little and the median didn't change at all. So in conclusion we found that the average student at PHS exercises an average of six and a half hours a week. This isn't too good out of 168 hours in a week.

ACADEMICS

Robotics

Stephanie Martinez '16

BZZZT. INCOMING TRANSMISSION: The robotics club is assembling! The team is sponsored by Mr. Lessnau, one of the new teachers this year. Roughly 10 people are on the robotics team and they accept anyone. The club is competing in Recycle Rush Regionals where they compete against other schools' robots. The team meets every day, they have a system where they get parts then plan out what they want their robot to do. After the plan, they brainstorm designs, next they split into groups, one group builds one part of the robot another builds another part. Finally they program the robot to do whatever they like, afterward the robot is ready for competition. The team has their first district competition March 13th and 14th against Gull Lake. I spoke to some of the members of the club. 10th grader Rebecca Pierce told me "It's my first year of robotics and I'm really nervous. I joined because I wanted to build a robot and be part of a team. I like robotics because it's hands on, fun, and amazing." Jacob Birman in 11th grade stated, "I've been in robotics two years now, I joined because I needed something to do and it's a challenge. I like robotics because it's fun and we get to build robots." Freshman Kiana Amaro said, "This is my first year in robotics and I'm nervous. I joined robotics because it sounded like a fun new experience. I like robotics because it's fun and has good new knowledge." Robotics could be a club you should join if you want to have fun and new experiences.

Silly Puddy

Erin Owens '17

Silly putty is a toy, similar to play-doh, that most of you probably played with as a child. On Tuesday January 7, Mr. Corcoran's Chemistry E and EC classes got to make silly putty in an organic chemistry lab. Silly putty was created during World War II by accident by James Wright, he was working for the U.S. War Production board, trying to create an inexpensive substitute for synthetic rubber at a General Electric lab in Connecticut. However when his creation turned out to be no better than the synthetic rubber that already existed the government did not want his "nutty putty" and he casted his creation aside. A few years later though, businessman Peter Hodgson noticed what a hit the stuff was at a party. He renamed it "Silly Putty" and marketed it as a toy, packaging it in colorful plastic eggs because he put it out around Easter time. Silly putty ended up being one of the most popular toys of the 20th century. Then people started to come up with more practical uses for silly putty like, picking up dirt, lint, and even sticking it to a wobbly leg on a table more stable. Astronauts on the Apollo 8 moon mission even used silly putty to keep their tools secure in zero gravity! <http://www.kidsdiscover.com/quick-reads/weird-science-the-accidental-invention-of-silly-putty/>

- SENIORS! Have you filled out your FAFSA application yet? For those of you who have never heard of FAFSA it is the "Free Application for Federal Student Aid." The FAFSA determines your eligibility for student financial aid. Student financial aid is extremely helpful! If you think you may need some help paying for college its worth it to take the time to fill out the application. After filling out the application you will hear back from the Department of Education, letting you know how much money you qualify for. If you are eligible, the money you acquire can be used towards tuition, college fees, room and board, and other miscellaneous college expenses. I recommend that FAFSA is the first thing you even think about applying for, but make sure to apply for as many scholarships as possible!

February 1st was a sad day for Seattle Seahawks fans as they lost the biggest game of the year with the final score being 24-28. Here's a recap of the excitement. In the first quarter, Tom Brady and the New England Patriots moved the ball down to the 10 yard line on their second drive but then Tom Brady threw an interception to Jeremy Lane. It was a costly interception for Seattle as Jeremy Lane ran off the field with a severely broken arm. The second quarter was where it really heated up. Tom Brady threw an 11 yard pass to Brandon Lefell and then the very next drive Marshawn Lynch punched into the end zone with a 3 yard run putting the score at 7-7. Soon after, Tom Brady threw for another touchdown putting them up 14-7. Pete Carroll and his Seahawks needed to do something big. Russel Wilson was on the 11-yard line with 10 seconds left in the half. Russel then threw it to Chris Matthews for an 11-yard touchdown tying the score 14-14 going into the half. Both teams knew that they had to play harder in the second half. Seahawks dominated the third quarter scoring a total of 10 points with a pass to Doug Baldwin and a 27-yard field goal by Steven Hauschka. At the end of the Third quarter the Seahawks lead the Patriots 24-14. Going into the 4th quarter the Seahawks were looking like they were going to win the Super Bowl for the second time in 2 years, but New England was looking to crush those dreams. New England scored the first touchdown to Danny Amendola and then 5 minutes later they scored another to Rob Gronkowski which put the Patriots ahead 24-28. The Seahawks had a chance to win the game. With 30 seconds left they were on the 3 yard line and a touchdown here would put them ahead 3 points and almost definitely win them the game. Wilson threw the ball and it was intended for Ricardo Lockette but was intercepted by Malcolm Butler. The Patriots would kneel the ball for the last 20 seconds and then go on to be the Super Bowl 49 champions, winning the game with the Final Score being 24-28.

Black History Month, or National African American History Month, is an annual celebration of achievements by black Americans and a time for recognizing the central role of African Americans in U.S. Black History Month begins in 1915, half a century after the Thirteenth Amendment abolished slavery in the United States. By the late 1960s, the Civil Rights Movement and a growing awareness of black identity, Negro History Week had evolved into Black History Month. Since then, every American president has designated February as Black History Month. "I celebrated black history month by going bowling, and then going home and watching civil rights movies with my aunt and reading articles about it", says senior Kadee Bechman.

Snow Day Fun

Logan Messenger '16

- Ring- Ring, "Pennfield Schools will be closed Today." This is the call that students at our school receive on snow days. Snow days give us great opportunities to other fun activities and sleep in, instead of getting up early and heading to another day of school. On snow days, you can participate in activities such as have a marathon of your favorite TV show, or why not finish up that good book you've been reading? You can also go sledding with your friends, or curl up in a nice blanket and watch youtube videos. I had the opportunity to speak with two students about their favorite thing to do on a snow day. "I like to play video games" answers Ryan Owens, Senior. Autumn Quick, Junior explains "I like to sleep." Next time you have a snow day, remember these suggestions and you'll have a grand time.

bringing back KVA titles to both football and baseball. He was also Captain on the Varsity Football team. Something that is unique is that he was actually in Mrs. Royers class not once, but 4 times in one year! That doesn't happen very often. Currently, Chris is in his last semester at Central Michigan University. He will be graduating in May with a degree in Meteorology. His hope is to be that guy on TV who delivers the weather to thousands of people on a daily basis. His advice to all of us is, "I would say that no matter what it is that you want to do in life, don't let anybody ever tell you that you can't do it. I had a dream of being a meteorologist, and I'm a few months away from achieving that dream."

Gas Prices

Samantha Penland '15

For everyone who can drive those gas prices are fantastic. A few weeks ago it was almost $1 a gallon. That is crazy good, everyone basically got a ton of gas because it was so cheap. It is going back up now, but it is still very low. It is better than the $5 a gallon which it was really close to last year. The reason that gas prices are so low is because the cost of oil has gone down about 25% since its peak in June. The oil is so cheap because of change in the world supply and and world demand. So the less it costs for oil the less gas is going to cost for everyone. Source: <http://www.foxnews.com/opinion/2014/10/21/real-reason-gas-prices-are-falling/>

Class Carts Camarie Smith '16

During Winter Carnival week, each class had the chance to design their own cart leading up to the pep rally. This year's theme was Pennfield spirit. At the pep assembly, each class rolled their cart around the gym while the student section cheered. The carts were later judged that night. Juniors received first place, while sophomores came in second. Freshman got third, and seniors came in last place. Kaylyn Prado, "enjoyed working on the cart and helping out." Mrs. Royer and Mr. Boyd were extremely excited that their class placed first in the cart decorations, especially since the juniors placed last overall. Great job everyone, way to show school spirit!

Dress-Up Days Taylor Stout '15

Winter Carnival spirit week, although not as exciting as Homecoming spirit week, can be super fun. Many students love coming out of their normal, everyday routine, and dressing up for spirit week. This year, Monday was Pajama Day, and who doesn't love that? The Sophomores won taking the immediate lead. On Tuesday, Sophomores win again on Fancy (or bum) day. Sophomores keep racking up the points as they win again on Wednesday for Camo Day. Teacher Twin Thursday was sadly a no go, due to a snow day. But, Spirit Day was the final chance to get the points, and the Sophomore class, again, took that opportunity and was the most spirited. As the week came to a close, all the dress-up points were added up and Sophomores won it all. Coming close, were the Freshman, with the Seniors trailing behind. Which leaves the Juniors in last place. Better luck next time guys!
